YOUNG HUMAN RIGHTS DEFENDER SHOT DEAD

Guatemalan human rights defender Jeremy Abraham Barrios Lima was assassinated on 12 November. He was the Assistant to the Executive Director of the Guatemalan Centre for Legal, Environmental and Social Action (CALAS).

In the afternoon of 12 November, unknown assailants shot Jeremy Abraham Barrios Lima twice in the head in Guatemala City, Zone 1, near a very well-known restaurant. The perpetrators did not steal his personal effects, which included two cellphones, his identity card, and a savings card. According to information provided by the Guatemalan Centre for Legal, Environmental and Social Action (CALAS), Jeremy Abraham Barrios Lima did not receive any threats in the days prior to the murder. The Unit of Crimes against Life of the General Prosecutor's Office (Fiscalía de Delitos contra la Vida) is in charge of the investigation. CALAS has requested to move the responsibility for the investigation into the Unit of Attacks against Human Rights Activists (Unidad de Ataques contra Activistas de Derechos Humanos).

Jeremy Abraham Barrios Lima was a former student leader and human rights campaigner. As an Assistant to the Executive Director of CALAS, he was in charge of managing sensitive information related to the high profile cases CALAS is litigating. The investigation into his murder should explore the possibility that he was killed in retaliation for his legitimate human rights work.

Please write immediately in Spanish or your own language:

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

The Guatemalan Centre for Legal, Environmental and Social Action (CALAS) is a Guatemalan non-government organization working to defend and promote the human rights to a healthy environment and the rights of Indigenous Peoples. They provide legal representation and advice to several communities in Guatemala who are promoting human rights in the context of projects for the exploration and exploitation of natural resources.

On 29 August 2011, the director and legal adviser at CALAS, Yuri Melini and Rafael Maldonado, both received envelopes that contained the same documents: a threat; papers from the Office of the Comptroller General (Contraloría General de Cuentas); and mug-shot photographs of 18 men, which appeared to have been taken from police files.

On 8 September 2008, masked men shot CALAS director Yuri Melini, apparently in connection with his work (See UA 248/08, <https://www.amnesty.org/en/documents/amr34/021/2008/en/>). Following the attack, Yuri Melini and CALAS were granted protection from the state.

According to the civil society organization UDEFEGUA, human rights defenders working on issues of the environment are the main group of activists attacked in Guatemala. For more information, see the report 'We are defending the land with our blood': Defenders of the land, territory and environment in Honduras and Guatemala, <https://www.amnesty.org/en/documents/amr01/4562/2016/en/>).
