Want to help Amnesty develop its work with young people?

Want to meet other youth members?

Free to come to London on 6th December?

Apply to be on AIUK's Youth Advisory Group!

Recruitment has now started for Amnesty's Youth Advisory Group. Each year we recruit a small group of youth group members to give us their views on our campaigns, our mailings, our website and how we can get more young people involved in Amnesty.

Who can apply?

Up to 2 members from each youth group can apply. We like get a good spread of people from across the UK. This great opportunity is for the more active or committed members of youth groups aged 14 and over.

Do I have to know lots about Amnesty International?

You don't need to be an expert on Amnesty. But we do need you to be enthusiastic, committed and ready to contribute.

How much time will I have to give?

It is a one year commitment and you would be expected to attend 3-4 meetings over the course of the year (we cover all transport costs and pay for accommodation if you need it). The meetings are always on Saturdays and the first one will be on 6th December 2014. Other meetings will be in February/March, July and September. Meetings are at our offices, the Human Rights Action Centre, in London. In addition, you will be asked to give feedback by email or Facebook in between meetings.

What happens at meetings?

For those of you who have to come down the night before, we pick you up from the station if you want us to. We take you to your accommodation (where two members of Amnesty staff also stay). And we take you out for dinner too!

Meetings run from about 10am to 4pm and are really informal. We basically just ask you for your opinions and ideas on all kinds of things such as our materials, website and campaigns. Sometimes we split you up into smaller groups or sometimes we all stay as one group. There are usually about 20 of you in total. We try to make sure the day is fun and active. At the end we can take people back to the station if needed. We cover all your food and travel expenses.

Here's what Kieran from the 2013-14 Youth Advisory Group said about his experience:

There is something to be said about being surrounded by a group of similar aged like-minded people, all striving to achieve the same objectives. The atmosphere of these meetings is great, and the staff at the Amnesty International UK are so welcoming. Being part of the Youth Advisory Group is a once in a life time opportunity, with the ability to make a difference on the world with brand-new friends. The diversity of people you meet and tasks you work on is unbelievable, and with so many different experiences there is never a lack of ideas to hand! I would recommend the Youth Advisory Group to anyone, it has certainly changed my life.
