

TWO WEEKS WITH THE QUEEN

by MORRIS GLEITZMAN

Published by Penguin Group

Twelve year old Colin Mudford is on a quest. His younger brother, Luke, has cancer and the doctors in Australia don't know how to cure him. Sent to London to stay with relatives, Colin sets out to find the best doctor in the world. Who better to ask for help than the Queen of England..?

During his adventure, Colin meets a man named Ted who is also dealing with the illness of a loved one, Griff. They form an unlikely friendship and guide each other in a journey of humour, hope and acceptance.

BACKGROUND

In 1981, the Centre of Disease Control and Prevention (USA) reported an unexplained illness affecting gay men. By the end of that year, there had been 270 cases of severe immune deficiency in gay men; 121 of those individuals had died. In 1982 the disease was named Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (or AIDS) and it was later discovered that the disease is caused by the virus HIV.

Today, an estimated 34 million people are affected by HIV and AIDS but there is still a stigma which surrounds the issue due to misconceptions about the disease, who can contract it and how it is transmitted. This stigma is often attached to other forms of discrimination such as racism, misogyny and homophobia.

In Two Weeks with the Queen, Ted experiences homophobia. This is a hostility or fear of gay people and can manifest in many ways: from name-calling to isolation or physical assault. Although homosexuality was decriminalised in the UK in 1967, a significant proportion of gay people still face direct bullying in their everyday lives.

IDEAS FOR THE CLASSROOM

QUESTIONS FOR DISCUSSION

1. Imagine you are being bullied because of the colour of your eyes. How would you feel? How would you react? Who in our society might experience these feelings?

2. During the book, what does Colin learn and how does it change him? Possible answers: He learns about mortality, he learns what it means to be gay, he learns that family and friendship are the most important things to him, he learns to accept situations.
3. Explore the different connotations of the word "Queen". How could this be used to hurt people's feelings? What other language is not acceptable and why?
4. What are your thoughts on how this book ends? Do you see the ending as happy or sad?

ROLE PLAY & WRITING

1. In pairs, imagine what Ted would say to his attackers and how they would respond. Create a short role play.
2. In chapter 15, Colin has to say goodbye to Ted and Griff. Imagine what he might have said? Create a short role play.
3. Write a short dialogue piece exploring this the last role play.
4. Write an article for a local newspaper summarising the story.
5. Write an interview with Ted for a national newspaper
